Thanks, Elizabeth! I don't have a problem with you telling him why we're looking at the data, and you can always let him know that if he wants more information, he can talk with Alan or me. I'd hope they'd think that data is just data, so sharing it to help inform everyone about what's known should be a good thing.

And thanks again to all of you for the conversation this morning. I'll work on sending something out to the whole OR CZARA pesticide team and cc: you, FYI.

Subject: OHA application data

I spoke with Curtis Cude at OHA and reminded him of EPA's request for the Triangle Lake application data. He also asked me what it was for, or more specifically, ODA wanted to know what we wanted it for. I was a bit evasive, and only let on that EPA was interested in determining what, where, and how much herbicides were applied. And that it had nothing to do with the public health investigation, and even better as far as ODA was concern, I wasn't the one who would be using the data (though I would like to see it). I also reminded him that the data was in fact public. I'm sure my evasiveness raised more suspicions than ever, but Curtis said he'd get that going and coordinate providing the information with Alan.
